

"ROGUES & ROUGE!"

Women Pirates of the High Seas!

Featuring the Stories Of:

Anne Bonnie & Mary Read
Rachel Wall
Grace O'Malley
Madame Cheng

Have ye heard of the Pirate Blackbeard?

How about Black Bart or

Captain Kidd?

Aye!

But what about the pirates Rachel Wall,

Grace O'Malley, or Madame Cheng?

Well the shenanigans of these women pirates were just as exciting and adventurous as their male counterparts!

Too often women have been portrayed as pedestrian in regards to maritime history, or as mythical victimizing beings, or simply not represented at all. The program "Rogues & Rouge: Women Pirates of the High Seas" is an attempt to correct this oversight. Through a fun animated PowerPoint presentation, designed expressly for youth groups, students will learn about the exciting role female pirates played in maritime history!

Following the 30 minute program, students will have the opportunity to make their own piece of "pirate coin jewelry!" This activity will provide students with a brief history of early money: the Spanish reales, pieces of eight, the escudo, and the gold doubloon.

So avast thar mates and come aboard for an exciting tour of Women Pirates of the High Seas!

Savvy?

*Program available Tuesday - Saturday.
